CANNOT TRAVEL IN CZAR'S LAND

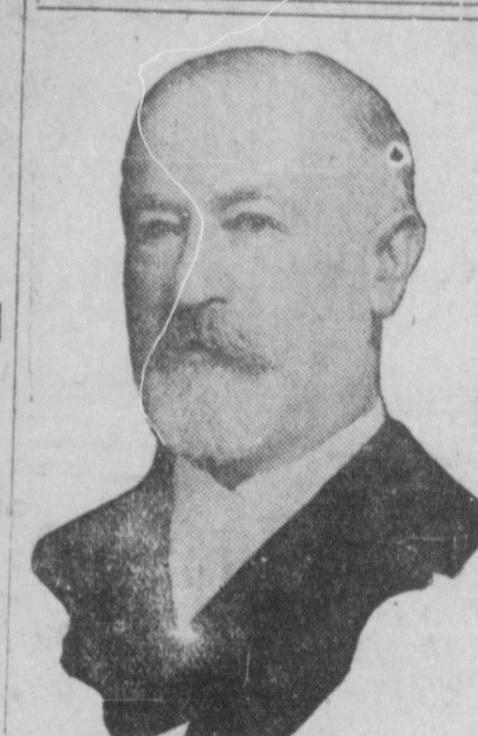

Bankers Demand Upon New York Senators That Treaty Signed With Russia in 1832 by Which Each Nation Was to Honor Other's Passports Be Abrogated Unless Latter Country Changes Attitude—Blames Ambassador Rockhill.

New York, Nov. 18.—Banker J. H. Schiff is authority for the statement that the true reason for the United States government not insisting on the recognition of its treaty rights with Russia regarding passports issued to Jews traveling in Russia was that such a policy was thought to be harmful to certain American business interests. He said that at one time he had refused to use his influence to help Russia obtain a financial footing here and had later been told by an agent of the Russian government, a Mr. Wilinken, that in spite of his opposition a syndicate of American manufacturers had been formed to exploit the Russian field. These arrangements, according to Mr. Schiff, had been made by Wilinken with John Hays Hammond, and Mr. Schiff quoted the Russian agent as saying that Mr. Hammond had been selected for the task because of the influence he had on President Taft.

Mr. Schiff was one of a large number of prominent Jews who went to the offices of Senator O'Gorman with the purpose of laying before Senators O'Gorman and Root the situation

Snow Covers Broad Expanse of Country at Varying Depths.

Omaha, Nov. 18.—The entire country between the Missouri river and Salt Lake and from the Kansas line to the Canadian boundary is covered with snow ranging from an inch to two feet in depth, with predictions for more snow in the western and northern portions of this district. The Northwestern railroad reports its entire system west of the Missouri as being under snow. Union Pacific reports snow all the way from Omaha to Ogden. Railroad traffic is not impeded.

DOINGS IN OHIO

What People in the Cities and Towns in the Buckeye State Are Doing and Saying—Notes of Interest.

Progressive Grangers Win. Columbus, O., Nov. 18.—Members of the anti-Jones faction in the National Grange succeeded, by a good majority, in securing the trial of Master Kegley of Washington, progressive, before the entire body, instead of the executive committee, which they asserted had been packed by Mr. Kegley's official funeral. The progressives seem to be in the minority, but they scored a victory in Kegley's case.

Wanderer Lands in Asylum. Columbus, O., Nov. 18.—Ross A. May, 29, of Bethesda, Belmont county, was brought to the Columbus state hospital. While a student at a local university his mind became unbalanced, and after wandering throughout the United States he was admitted in a hospital in Argentina. After he was confined in a London hospital, English authorities reported him and he was returned to Belmont county home.

Want to Boost Gas Prices. Columbus, O., Nov. 18.—The Ohio public service commission is investigating proposed increases in the price of natural gas in 23 cities in eastern Ohio supplied by the Wheeling Natural Gas company, the Western Ohio Gas company, and the Ohio Valley Gas company. Among the cities are Alliance, Bridgeport, Martin's Ferry, Liverpool and Steubenville. The increases can not be effective unless approved by the commission.

Drinks Acid in Barn. Zanesville, O., Nov. 18.—Ex-County Treasurer S. M. Rutledge was found in an unconscious condition in the snow of his barn, with his throat severely burned from drinking carboxylic acid. He left a note reading: "Goodbye, my life has been a failure; funeral for me." He will recover, but short in his accounts, but the amount back to the county. He has been despondent over this Burns Fatal to Woman. Bellefontaine, O., Nov. 18.—Nellie Eanes burned to death at her home in North Lewisburg as a result of an attempt to start a fire in the kitchen stove with coal oil. As she poured the oil on the smoldering embers a flame shot up and ignited her clothing, burning her so badly that death followed within a few minutes. The house caught fire and was destroyed.

Discovered Mistake in Time. Avon, O., Nov. 18.—Mrs. Frank Watson, wife of a farmer living two miles from Avon, through a mistake, used arsenic instead of baking powder in biscuits she made for breakfast. She and her husband took several bites before they discovered that something was wrong. Watson and his wife drove to Avon and a physician relieved them of the poison.

Hogan Invites Brandeis. Columbus, O., Nov. 18.—Louis D. Brandeis, attorney for the American Federation of Labor, has accepted the invitation of Attorney General Hogan to assist the state in arguments of the suit in mandamus instituted on behalf of Wallace D. Yapple, member of the state liability commission, to test the constitutionality of the workmen's compensation act.

Hurt in College Scrimmage. Alliance, O., Nov. 18.—Three Mount Union college students were badly injured and 25, including girls and members of the varsity football team, less seriously hurt in a bloody clash fight in which seniors and sophomores were arrayed on one side and juniors and freshmen on the other. Joseph Scott of East Liverpool, a junior, was carried from the battlefield unconscious, and did not regain his senses for 12 hours. His condition is critical. Donald Brown and William Hoover of Alliance, sophomores, were cut about the head, and Brown was unconscious an hour, while Hoover also had his shoulder broken.

CABINET MATERIAL IS SCARCE

Belief Prevails That He Will Fail in Attempt to Save Manchurian Dynasty From Being Engulfed in Wave of Republicanism Now Sweeping Over Celestial Empire—Attack on City of Hankow Is Resumed—Unpaid Army Is Restless.

Peking, Nov. 18.—It is generally conceded here that events of the last 24 hours have sufficed to cast grave doubt upon Yuan Shih Kai's ability to carry on the government with the cabinet that was announced, or perhaps with any cabinet whose policy includes the maintenance of a monarchy.

A number of agents of the provinces which have revolted are now at the capital spreading republican ideas and urging the entire elimination of the throne in the constitution.

Some of Yuan's appointees have declined the posts, while there are various conflicting elements among the remainder whom Yuan as yet has not succeeded in co-ordinating. It seems hourly more questionable whether Yuan will prove to be the savior for whom China has been waiting. He possesses the confidence of his own immediate adherents completely, but a large section of the people are most suspicious of his loyalty to the throne and believe that he is entirely under the thumb of the ex-premier, Prince Ching.

Native newspapers are critical of the cabinet. One of their chief complaints is that Yuan is unable to see predict the administration will be short-lived. China's financial trouble is growing more acute and is looked upon seriously. It is now a month since imperial revenues were received here. One result likely is the increase in the price of foodstuffs and consequent discontent. The revolutionists, on the other hand, seem to have plenty of money.

Hankow Fight Renewed.

That the taking up of the reins by Yuan Shih Kai has not affected the position of the Yangtze section, is shown in the latest reports from Hankow, where fighting has started again. The imperial commander telegraphed urgently for ammunition and supplies. The governor of Honan reports that the loyalty of the troops under his command is not to be vouchsafed for unless they receive their pay. He requests that 500,000 taels be sent at once to pay the soldiers. It is doubtful if the money will be forthcoming, in which case the Honanese are expected to join the rebels.

BIG CROWD EXPECTED

Every Seat on Yale Field Sold Two Weeks Ago.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 18.—If Princeton wins today's football game with Yale, the Tigers will go back to Jungleton the undisputed champions, with victories over Harvard and Yale and with not a single defeat, and only two tie games. Should Yale win, Harvard will have to be beaten the following Saturday to win the championship. The 33,000 seats in Yale field were bid for two weeks ago, and it is impossible now to get one.

Kentucky Congressman Calls at the White House to Tell Taft What He Thinks of Attorney General Wickersham and His Acceptance of the Tobacco Trust Reorganization Scheme, but Goes Away in Good Humor After Seeing Documents.

Washington, Nov. 18.—Chairman Stanley of the house steel investigating committee and President Taft compared notes on the trust question without finding apparently the slightest discord in their respective opinions. The Democratic chairman even told the president that he would oppose his colleague on the steel investigating committee. Representative to repeal the Sherman law and secure a substitute for it.

Mr. Stanley called at the White House to protest against what he called an abortion of the Sherman anti-trust law by Attorney General Wickersham's acceptance of the decree of the circuit court in New York providing for the reorganization of the tobacco trust. He paused in his protest to hand a few roses over the party wall in the way of congratulations to Mr. Taft upon his trust policy, and after they had compared notes on that question, Mr. Stanley found himself persuaded that he had not really given the attorney general's action in accepting the reorganization plan a fair decision. So he lugged away with him copies of the court's decree and the attorney general's brief. He promised the presi-

Smoked In Bed And Suffers Consequences

Man Awakes in Hospital and Tells of Horrible Dream.

Steubenville, O., Nov. 18.—"What a horrible dream I've had," muttered Thomas Heaton, 29, who awoke to find a doctor and a nurse at his bedside.

"What did you dream?" asked the physician. "I dreamed I was on board a burning ship and that I grabbed a redhot fire brand and jumped overboard," replied Heaton.

Then Heaton looked about him wonderingly. He was in a strange room and his arms, limbs and body were in bandages.

Unconscious and horribly burned, he had been taken out of a burning bed in his room at the Lacy hotel. After going to bed he lighted a cigarette and went to sleep with it in his mouth. The cigarette set the bed on fire and Heaton was fatally burned.

Mack Ventures Prediction. Detroit, Nov. 18.—"Roosevelt and Taft are racing neck and neck for the Republican nomination for the presidency." This was the statement made by Norman E. Mack, chairman of the Democratic national committee. Mack declares that Roosevelt is now an avowed candidate for the Republican nomination.

Dinner Program Announced by State Board of Commerce.

Columbus, O., Nov. 18.—The eighteenth annual meeting and eighth annual dinner of the Ohio State Board of Commerce will be held in this city Nov. 22. A business session will be held during the afternoon. At the dinner in the evening the subject for discussion will be "Constitution Making." After the annual address of the president, Allen Ripley Foote, has been delivered, L. G. Powers of the United States census bureau will discuss "The Budget System For Financing State and Local Governments." Arthur C. Pleydell, secretary of the National Tax association, will talk on "Taxation Constitutional Provisions," and E. S. Wilson, editor of the Ohio State Journal, will discuss "The Bill of Rights." Responses will be made to invitations from the toastmaster, George E. Pomeroy of Toledo.

It is not expected that action on any of the propositions pending before the constitutional convention will be acted on at the annual meeting, but that all such matters will be submitted to the executive committee, or a special committee. The action of this committee, together with the reasons therefor, will be published for the information of all members and the people of the state.

Vorys Sees President. Washington, Nov. 18.—Arthur L. Vorys of Columbus, Republican national committeeman for Ohio, was in Washington on legal business. Incidentally he called at the White House and discussed the political situation in Ohio.

Purdue's President Honored.

Columbus, O., Nov. 18.—At the closing session of the association of American agricultural colleges and experiment stations, W. E. Stone, president of Purdue university, was chosen president.

MASSACHUSETTS has before it the prospect of a murder trial equaling in grawsome interest the famous Borden trial of a score of years ago. The Rev. Clarence Richeeson, the young Cambridge clergymen accused of the murder of his former sweetheart, Avis Linnell, at his approaching ordeal in Boston will have to endure the questioning of District Attorney Pelletier, who has a reputation for energy. In the conduct of the state's cases and for gaining a large proportion of convictions, Richeeson's relatives and friends assert their belief in his innocence, and the members of the church of which he is pastor have declined to accept his resignation.

First Yarns
Of Hunting Season

"Just had a fine time hunting," said the local nimrod, and his face brightened up with the recollection of the day's sport.

"Only saw seven rabbits and I bagged one of 'em," he continued.

"No, I didn't see a single bird, but we had some sport anyway."

"Funny thing happened at the water works plant," he continued. "Man saw a rabbit in an old water pipe, put a sack over one end and how many rabbits do you suppose he chased out of the pipe?"

"Five, and—"

"That's nothing," interrupted one of his listeners, "I was out hunting and found a hollow log. I chopped into it, and how many rabbits do you suppose I found?"

"How many?" breathlessly asked Hunter No. 1.

"None," was the answer.

"And how do you suppose the rabbits entered that log?" he asked.

"I'll give it up; how did they?" asked hunter No. 1.

The answer came back like a flash,

"Why, through the hole in the log of course."

He looked around but his man had disappeared.

Mother Prostrated;
Under Doctor's Care

A sequel to the William Fenton Logan case comes to light from New Holland, in the critical illness of Mrs. M. W. Dixon, mother of Fenton's wife, who utterly refused to accompany her father and mother home, and told them never to speak to her again.

Mrs. Dixon was heart-broken over the affair, and worried over it until she became bed-fast, and is now under the care of a physician, being a nervous wreck. Both parents have suffered untold agony over the affair, and are not decided whether to allow the return of their daughter and her husband. Fenton's hatred of his father-in-law is too great to be concealed.

Up to the noon hour Saturday Fenton and his "five months old" bride were still in Washington. What their future plans are has not been ascertained.

Col. Roosevelt's Entrance
For G. O. P. Nomination

Is the Construction Eastern Politicians and Press Place Upon His "Big Business and Square Deal" Editorial.

New York, November 18.—With the digestion and discussion of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt's declaration affecting the trusts, and his attack on the decision approving the reorganization of the Tobacco Corporation, the consensus of opinion is that the former president has entered the arena for the Republican nomination for president against William H. Taft.

Big politicians in both parties expressed themselves in public or private that the Colonel has his eye on a third term, and that LaFollette will be his running mate on a platform built on latest Progressive ideas.

Wall street gave its plaudits yesterday to Roosevelt's ideas, and it would not surprise many to see the "street" marching in the "Teddy" column and advancing chunks of the sinews of war.

The Evening World publishes the following special dispatch from Washington:

Official Washington, preferring to maintain silence upon the declaration of Theodore Roosevelt upon the subject of legislation affecting "Big Business," united in the view that the new Roosevelt broadside was in effect an announcement of the opening of a campaign for the next presidential nomination. Linked with Roosevelt in the official gossip was the name of Robert M. LaFollette, of Wisconsin.

The politically wise thought they read in the stars which the Colonel knocked from the trusts' firmament the making of a political slate in which he is to head the ticket, with LaFollette as a representative of the progressive element of the Middle West, as his running mate. There did not appear to be any serious doubt in any quarter that this was the logical result of the Roosevelt pronouncements.

As this political view was taken of the case it was surprising that President Taft and the members of his official family declined to comment upon Colonel Roosevelt's views of the Sherman law prosecutions.

The news came from the White House to the waiting interviewers that the president would make no statement with reference to the article. Attorney-General Wickersham declined to see any one who called with the statement that an interview on Roosevelt was wanted. Secretary Knox, Secretary Meyer and Secretary Nagel followed the presidential lead.

When a suggestion was sought of what course the president would follow it came in the form of a mere intimation that the administration would in future push its trust prosecutions with more vigor than ever, and that the Steel Trust would be made to toe the mark in jig time. It was also intimated that the criminal prosecution of the Beef Trust would be more vigorous.

Colonel Roosevelt's attack upon the decree of the United States Circuit court for the Southern District of New York, approving the Tobacco Trust's plan of disintegration and reorganization, was directly inspired by attorneys for independent tobacco interests opposing that plan.

This statement is made upon the authority of one of the attorneys of the independents. It was he who appealed to the former president for aid in the efforts being made by the independents to induce Attorney General Wickersham to carry the Circuit court's approval to the Supreme court at Washington for review.

The editorial was submitted to the lawyer for the independents a week ago yesterday. The attorney went over it carefully with the president, and suggested several amendments and additions, all of which were adopted by the illustrious writer.

The palatial Cissna home adorned with fall flowers and greenery, presented a cheery contrast to the deluge of rain outside. Notwithstanding the elements, sixty-five guests attended and in the spontaneous welcome and the delightful entertainment of the afternoon found generous recompense for having braved the weather.

The women lingered late in the afternoon enjoying informal sociality over their fancy work and the elegant two-course luncheon served. Assisting in the various hospitalities of the afternoon were Mrs. Cissna's daughter, Mrs. Parker Tansey, of Columbus; Misses Katharine Rothrock, Emily Tansey, Ruth and Nelle Cissna.

SEVEN CARS IN DITCH ALL TRAFFIC TIED UP

Big Freight Wreck on D. T. & I. at Gregg's Hill Tears Up Track For Thirty-six Car Lengths. Second Wreck Follows First.

Tearing up the track for a distance of 36 car lengths, overturning seven cars into the ravine, and causing a delay of all traffic for probably 24 hours, second freight No. 54 left the track at Gregg's Hill down on the D. T. & I. at nine o'clock Friday night. No one was injured so far as known, but some of the crew had narrow escapes from being crushed to death.

The train was running at a good rate of speed, on the down grade, and when the first car left the track it was followed by six others which tore up the track, twisting rails and cutting ties in two, and it is estimated that 1500 ties were used in repairing the damage.

The point where the wreck occurred is a bad one for wrecks, and the cars which went over the embankment were crushed to splinters it is claimed.

To add to the general mix-up two freight cars on another train near the same spot left the rails, and this added to the congestion. A wreck train and crew were hurried to the scene and commenced the Herculean task of removing the obstruction and relaying the 1800 feet of damaged track.

The morning passenger train came through nearly on time, but the afternoon train Saturday will probably be many hours late. The wreck is the worst for many months.

To Regulate 'Em

At a regular meeting of the Circleville City Council an ordinance was presented by the Business Men's League to regulate ale, beer and porter houses and shops.

This ordinance requires that the places where intoxicating liquors are sold as a beverage to close at 11:30 p. m. and remain closed until the next morning at 5 o'clock, during which time no intoxicating liquors are to be sold.

It further prohibits the selling on Sunday or allowing any place to open on that day. All blinds, screens, etc., shall be removed during the time of closing and at night a light shall be kept burning. This ordinance excepts regular druggists. The penalty for any violations of this ordinance shall be not less than $25.00 nor more than $100.00 for the first offense and not less than $50.00 nor more than $200.00 for each subsequent offense.

This ordinance was referred to a committee consisting of all the members of Council, and was considered at a recess, after which Council was again called to order and the committee asked for further time in regard to the same.

ROOSEVELT—THE TOWN.

Roosevelt, the principal town in the Thunder Mountain district in central Idaho in 1902, today is covered by a lake 600 yards in length and 200 yards in width and of an average depth of 25 feet. The town site was the scene of a gold strike nine years ago and thousands braved the hardships and hazards of the trail. It proved a disappointment, though much pay ore was developed nearby.

The circumstance which wiped the town of Roosevelt from the map was peculiar. It resulted from a landslide two years ago, starting near the source of Mule creek, a mile and a half from the settlement. The great avalanche of earth and stone ploughed its way through a virgin forest with a roar that was heard for miles. Twenty-six hours after the break occurred the mass stopped abruptly across the lower part of the town forming a dam for Monument creek, which has now formed a lake where the town site stood.

There were few residents in the town at the time of the slide and all escaped with their possessions, owing to the slow movement of the avalanche. A log school house and two cabins, out of its path, now stand as silent sentinels to mark the vanished town. The buildings are situated above the water line and as the lake has risen to a point that it has an outlet, it is not likely the water will become deeper.

Roosevelt camp today is deserted, the residents having moved to other holdings. The mines are closed and the prospectors and miners have sought newer and more promising fields in the tributary country, which is rich in mineral resources. It is hardly probable that the camp ever will be resurrected, as it is isolated and off the line of transportation, besides which it would take a fortune to drain the water off to make it fit for habitation.

Such is fortune and fame.

Easy TaskLabor of Cuban Cigar Maker Lessened

By EDWIN TARRISSE

ORK in a Cuban cigar factory of the best class is agreeably spiced with entertainment and instruction. In such a factory not only does every cigar maker have plenty of light and air, a leather covered chair to sit on and the privilege of keeping on his hat while he works, but he is entertained meanwhile with novels and newspapers, song and discussion.

The factory reader sits at the rear of the workroom, enthroned upon an elevated stand. He is paid from the private funds of the cigar makers, the cost to each man ranging from ten to fifteen cents a week. This covers the cost of the books, novels and newspapers, as well as a salary of $39, which is paid to the president of the reading committee to make up for the time he is supposed to lose from his work while engaged in counting votes or making the weekly collection.

The readers earn from $40 to $60 a week, reading for a period of three or four hours a day. As a rule each factory has two readers, and newspapers are taken up in the morning and books or novels in the afternoon.

The selection of the book or novel to be read is an interesting feature. It takes the character of a political election, each man voting for the book he wants. The president of the reading committee counts the votes and announces the winning book, which is forthwith bought and placed in its turn to be read.

Those who cannot read or write are yet kept informed in this way upon public questions, and are able to discuss intelligently problems of national and municipal interest. They seem to be well informed on scientific and other matters.

If it is frequently the case that the newspapers have editorials or articles which arouse the patriotic feelings of the men. Then the reading is stopped, voices are heard commenting on the subject treated, and their knife, or chaveta, is struck violently on the flat surface of their working table. This is their mode of applauding.

Sometimes the national hymn and other popular airs are intoned, but singing is reserved for important occasions, such as the victory of a Cuban in a foreign country in some athletic contest, in a hard game wrung from some of the baseball teams which visit Havana each year. The excitement lasts, however, only a few minutes, work is at once resumed, and the only voice heard in the big room is that of the reader.

I notice the department of agriculture is trying to devise means for ridding the country of English sparrows.

It is a problem that has now assumed enormous proportions and the solution has been too long delayed.

I believe that some states have offered bounties for the dead sparrows. Is this not the case?

Does the state of Illinois offer bounties for them, and if so how much? And where should they be taken?

Newspapers could do a great deal of good by making known to the public the reasons why the English sparrows are our enemies and other birds are our best friends and should be protected.

Why English Sparrow Should be Killed

By MRS. L. SWEENEY

Poetry-TodayTHINK IT OVER.

A little bit of laughter helps to brighten up the day. A cheery word will make the load seem lighter. A welcome smile of greeting helps to smooth the rugged way. A friendly hand will make the world look brighter. It's worry over trouble that has never happened yet. That makes a fellow old and stooped of shoulder; And wrinkles surely follow all the worry and the fret. To make a fellow feel and look much older.

A little snatch of singing helps to shorten up the road, A whistled tune will keep the heart from grieving.

A "howdy-do" soul-speak helps to bear the weary load. A cheery "hello" helps beyond believing.

To grouch is but to double all the trials of the day. To grumble is to lose life's choicest flavor.

It's love that keeps you happy all along the weary way. And brings to you the old world's richest favor.

The time you spend in sighing never brings you in a cent; It's waste of time to sit around and grumble.

It's up to you to hustle with a will, and good intent—

The world will quick forgive you if you stumble.

But this world hates a quitter, and it loves the man who tries; It loves the man who meets misfortune smiling;

It loves the man who's looking with a smile within his eyes, And with a cheery word the hours beguiling.

WOMAN RUNS A BANK

Sister of Jane Addams Heads Kansas Institution.

Located in Girard Twenty Years Ago and on the Death of Her Husband Became the Bank's President

Girard, Kan.—The morning sunlight filtered through the little window in the back office of the State Bank of Girard, and the bars across the window cast a network of shadows on the floor. The woman who sat in the heavy office chair behind the desk was fifty-eight years old, but her face showed scarcely a wrinkle, and the white in her hair glinted now and then by way of proof that it once was gold. The woman was Mrs. S. Alice Haldeman, and she is the bank's president. Mrs. Haldeman has another claim to distinction, for she is the sister of Miss Jane Addams of Hull House, Chicago.

"Well, yes, I'm the president," she admitted to a visitor, "only I don't run the bank myself; we all run it together—the two men and I."

It was 20 years ago that Dr. and Mrs. Haldeman came to Girard. The physician's health was poor, and the move was made on this account from the home of their childhood in Illinois.

"My husband became interested in the banking business shortly after we came here," Mrs. Haldeman said, "and he founded a bank of his own. We are the oldest bank in the county and have weathered three panics.

"Dr. Haldeman died five years ago," she added, "and—when with the last words he ever spoke he asked me not to leave the bank. So I took charge, and I'm very glad that I did, for I love the work. But, pshaw, it's not interesting to tell you about myself—you just ought to know my sister, Jane, or my daughter, Marcet."

Although her name seldom is written in connection with that of her sister, Mrs. Haldeman has done a great deal of work at Hull House.

"I usually spend about three months of every year there," she said, "just to be with Jane and the girls she is helping through life; I have learned to love them all, and I look upon Hull House as my home. Home, that is, since my daughter has gone."

Mrs. Haldeman's daughter has been on the stage for several years. She won't play in any cast in which work must be done on Sunday, and wherever it is possible she goes to Sunday school and teaches a class.

"Do I find life here in Girard tedious? No things move fast enough for me, with my club work and bank and letters and reading."

The walls of Mrs. Haldeman's house are lined with shelves and on these are crowded hundreds of books. Above the shelves are pictures, drawings and paintings; of these last there is a life-size oil painting of her sister, Jane. Marble busts are set on pedestals and the grand piano is littered with books of classical music.

On the center table there was a book of photographs and Mrs. Haldeman leafed through it slowly while she talked. They were old pictures of the old days, most of them showing scenes of the Addams home at Cedarville, Ill.

At one of the pictures Mrs. Haldeman paused.

"That's the old mill at home," she said, and added after a moment, "Jane and I used to play hide-and-go-seek in that musty old place. Jane was the greatest little bunch of enthusiasm you ever saw, and she always was asking people to forgive her for the naughty things she fancied she had done."

And as she turned the pages of the book and saw once more the faces and scenes of the past her eyes became moist.

which at present makes it impossible for Americanized Russian Jews as well as Protestant and Catholic missionaries to travel in Russia. The American Jewish committee and the presidents of various communal institutions here united in asking the two New York senators to favor the abrogation of the present Russian treaty, which dates from 1832.

Broken For Forty Years.
Louis Marshall, a lawyer, told the senators that for the last 40 years Russia had broken that section of the agreement which provided for the honoring by each country of the passports issued by the other. Americanized Russian Jews were discriminated against, he said, and he thought it was against all true American principles that such a state of affairs should be allowed to continue, evoking only protests on the part of this government. He insisted that resolutions favoring the abrogation of the treaty already before the senate be passed.

Senator O'Gorman said that the grievance was well founded and called for immediate redress. He would support the resolution for terminating the treaty unless Russia at once ceased to discriminate against a certain class of Americans. Senator Root did not go so far; he merely said he would give his advice and support to a course that would lead to a satisfactory solution of the problem.

At that Mr. Schiff rose and told the senators that he knew the negotiations of President Taft in the matter had been in good faith, but that his ambassador in St. Petersburg, Mr. Rockhill, considered the passport matter of much less importance than the business interests of American manufacturers.

In his conversation with the president upon the trust question Representative Stanley referred to Mr. Littleton's speech before the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce, in which he advocated a repeal of the Sherman law and the passage of a substitute federal incorporation law. Such a course as that, Mr. Stanley told the president, after the years of work the government had done to secure an effective interpretation of the law by the court, would be foolhardy. He told Mr. Taft that he agreed with him that the Sherman law should be left intact and that if any legislation was to be passed it should be such supplemental legislation to strengthen the law, as Mr. Taft has suggested. He congratulated the president on his enforcement of the law.

MEMORIAL TO JOHN CABOT

The ironing precipice of Cabot hill, 620 feet high, guards the narrow entrance to the harbor of St. John's, Newfoundland. The massive rock was named in honor of the intrepid English navigator, who discovered the island in 1497, and as a further memorial to him the city of St. John's built the stone tower, shown in the illustration, on the highest point of Cabot hill. The tower rises 75 feet above the top of the hill, and is used as a signal station for ships. It is maintained a wireless telegraph station and from its flag staff fly the weather signals for the benefit of the sea-faring folk.

BETRAYED BY THE ROOSTER

If it had not been that a rooster gave way to an impulse to crow at a convenient moment, Mrs. Yetta Harowitz would not have had to explain to a New Jersey police court the disappearance of three chickens from the butcher shop.

Mrs. Harowitz purchased a chicken in a butcher shop, and was on the point of departing when the butcher heard a rooster's crow, rather suppressed but yet distinct. Glancing hurriedly about the store, he noted that three fowl had disappeared.

Mrs. Harowitz was taken to the station house, where she was searched, and the result was that in the lining of her skirt were found two hens and the rooster.

PULL TEETH WITH FINGERS.

Japanese native dentists conduct their business in a manner which would undoubtedly cause any European practitioner to open his eyes in amazement. The victim is seated on the ground, the dentist bends over him, and forces his left hand between the patient's jaws, in such a manner that the mouth cannot possibly be closed. Then he grasps the doomed tooth between the thumb and forefinger of the right hand, and with one deft wrench removes it and throws it upon the ground.

So great is the skill of these native dentists that many of them are able to remove six or seven teeth a minute. Indeed, their skill is hardly to be wondered at, when one considers the course of preparatory training they are obliged to undergo.

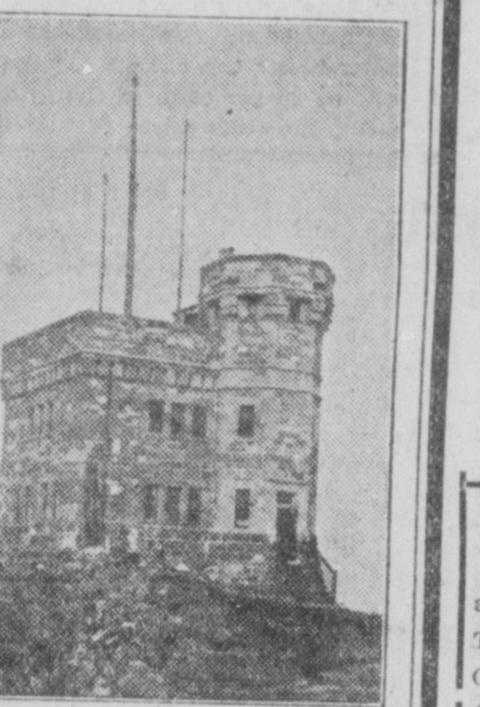

A number of holes are bored in a stout plank, and this is fixed firmly to the ground. In the holes are driven wooden pegs, and the would-be dentist has to extract them with his fingers without dislodging the board. This process is repeated with the board of pine wood, and finally with one of oak, and it is only when he has succeeded in extracting the pegs from the oak plank that the Japanese considers himself qualified to practice upon his fellowmen.

There is a growing disposition on the part of ship owners and officers in various parts of the world to send to China for complete crews. For most ships, particularly when first employing such crews, it is necessary to carry about a third more Chinese for the same service.

On the other hand there are many officers and owners who claim that with such additional allowance of help a vessel is run more easily and efficiently, and that, all things considered, the Chinese sailor is the best all around man aboard ship to be found anywhere.

He is adaptable from fireroom to galley, is industrious, has little or no desire to leave the ship in port and therefore gives little or no trouble from drunkenness and desertion. As soon as they become accustomed to foreign ways Chinese crews are as efficient as and often more efficient than foreign crews man for man, and some companies pay their Chinese crews practically as much man for man as they do white crews and carry the same complement they would of white employees.

Well Too Deep

$25,000 Estate

Filling It Up Left by H. T. Gooley

The oil well near Mt. Sterling which was drilled to a depth of some 1600 feet where a flow of high grade oil was found, has been drilled to a depth of 2035 feet, and at that point the drill struck "blue lick" water.

The drillers are now filling the hole to the 1600 foot point where the oil was encountered, and will then shoot the well in the hope that it will be a paying one.

The managers of the company are hopeful that the precious fluid may be found in paying quantities.

The last will and testament of Henry T. Gooley, whose death recently occurred in New Holland, has been probated. The estate is valued at $25,000. The home residence is given to his daughters, Minta and Grace. In the event of the death of either or both, the property is given to his daughter, Mrs. Cora McCafferty for life. After the death of the three daughters, the property is to be sold and from the proceeds $200 is to be paid to the trustees of the M. E. church, and the balance to be distributed among the heirs.

The executor is directed to purchase a monument for the family lot in the New Holland cemetery, not to exceed the value of $200.

Cora McCafferty, wife of Willis McCafferty, Minta Gooley and Grace Gooley are each to receive one-third of the residue of the estate, both real

A most unusual occurrence where in a defendant in a divorce suit files his answer to the charges, not in court, but in his local paper, has come to light at Mt. Sterling.

James D. Robison was sued for divorce in the Madison county courts last week, and in Friday's issue of the Mt. Sterling Tribune he denies the charges in the following statement:

"I wish to say a word to the public in regard to the London Enterprise divorce item published last week. The action is true but I beg leave to say the plaintiff has misrepresented on her second and third charges, and as to the first, which was drunkenness, I would like to ask how a man could work 300 days in the year, pay grocery bills amounting from $15 to $20 per month and be charged with neglect on part of defendant. And to verify the gross neglect I beg to say the plaintiff participated also in this cause by employing her time daily in reading, (not scripture), novels, letting her house duties glide—a good approval to cause drunkenness.

Thomas M. Withgott, of New Holland is named in the will as executor but he declined to serve. W. C. Crawford was appointed administrator with the will annexed, at the request of the children.

The will was made October 7, 1904, and witnessed by Charles H. May, and Wm. W. Gooley. A codicil, dated September 25, 1911, provided for Mrs. McCafferty to have the home place for life.

The estate is estimated to be worth $25,000, of which $2,500 is personal property.

If expectations for the sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals in Ohio this year are realized, five million of the holiday stickers will be sold. "Five Million Seals in Ohio" will be the slogan of the 1911 campaign. This will mean about one seal to every citizen in the state.

The State Tuberculosis Society will this year for the first time be state agent for Ohio, in handling the sale of seals. A new office has been opened in Cleveland under the management of S. Livingston Mather, and an initial order has been placed for 5,000,000 seals. In cities and counties where organized work is being carried on against the spread of tuberculosis the charge for the seals will be 25 per cent. of the gross proceeds, the state agent furnishing the seals and advertising materials and taking back all unsold seals at the end of the season. In all other parts of Ohio the State Society is placing its agents to sell the seals and 87 1/2 per cent. of the proceeds goes to the State Society for extending throughout the state organized work for the prevention of tuberculosis, while 12 1/2 per cent. goes to the National Tuberculosis Association.

The sale of the seals begins at Thanksgiving time and continues until New Year's.

The Pythian Sisters' kensington will be held at the home of Mrs. Jess Blackmer on Rawlings street, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Corn Molds
And Ear Rot

There is general complaint over Ohio this fall of corn molding in the shock, and the investigations of the Experiment Station show that corn in some places is infected not only with the ordinary molds with pink or white threads between the kernels and extending to the cob but also with what may prove to be a more serious disease, which starts with the cob, causing it to become rotten, and extending to the kernels. As these molds are not mere accidents, but are plants having reproductive organs which are carried over from year to year in moldy grain or husks. Special care should be taken to avoid infected ears in selecting seed corn.

The Experiment Station at Wooster announces that it will be pleased to receive samples of any unusual diseased conditions in corn for further examination.

Man Found Hanging in Sugar House Was Wealthy Farmer.

Warren, O. Nov. 18.—The body of an unknown man found hanging in Elmer Miller's sugar house at Farmington may be that of George J. Urzrock of McGregor, Ia., who strangely disappeared last week while on his way to Kinsman, this county, to buy a farm. Urzrock left home two weeks ago, intending to come to Kinsman. He failed to arrive here and his wife heard nothing from him. He had a large sum of money with him, and it is thought that he may have been murdered by robbers, who afterward hung up his body to make him appear a suicide.

WAITING FOR HOGAN TO GIVE AN OPINION

Memorial Hall Trustees Meet
With Commissioners, But Nothing is Done Pending an Opinion From the Attorney General.

Much interest has been centered upon what action would be taken by the Board of County Commissioners in connection with the petition filed on Saturday, Nov. 11, asking for the Board to demand the immediate resignation of the Memorial and accusing her unjustly, and that he eventually drove her from her home in Hillsboro, and she came to this city.

She further alleges that the defendant has wholly neglected to provide her with the common necessities of life and failed to clothe her. Because of his treatment of her, the plaintiff asks that she be awarded a decree of divorce, given custody of Vera Insley, and all other relief due her.

The plaintiff is a woman of goodly appearance, and has been making her own living in this city since leaving her home.

Five members of the Board of Trustees, in response to an invitation, met with the County Commissioners at the Commissioners' office Saturday morning in order to take the matter up in detail.

The meeting resulted in a postponement of further discussion until an opinion is received from Attorney General Hogan regarding some points which have been raised in connection with the case. This opinion may be received within the next few days, and another conference will then probably be called within a short time.

Held to Grand Jury Will Work On Streets

Frank Smith, who has been confined in the county jail some ten days was arraigned before Mayor Allen again Saturday afternoon and an attempt made to dispose of the case.

Smith was bound over to the grand jury under $300 bond upon the charge of attempting to contribute to the delinquency of a minor female.

On an old charge in which he was fined $100 and the costs and given six months in the work house, which sentence was suspended pending his good behavior, Smith proposed that if he was not sent to the works he would agree to work on the streets under Commissioner Hillery until January 1st, providing he secured a cash bond of $100 as surety, the amount to be refunded by January 1.

This was agreed to, and he called his brother in to go out and raise the amount involved, and secure the $100 bond. He was sent back to the county jail to await the time when the bond could be secured.

Smith will probably be released this evening under the conditions above mentioned.

CHANGES IN FOOTBALL

New System of Coaching Gives Many Players Chance.

Old Machine Gives Place to Squad Capable of Experimental Shifts in Course of Game—Eleven Is Made More Plastic.

Football coaching has undergone as radical a change in the last few years as has the game itself, and nothing exemplifies this so much as the methods in vogue in the middle west. There is less change in the east, for eastern elevens are so hedged about with their traditions and "coaching systems" that reform is hard to accomplish with the big teams of the district, and as the smaller schools, as a general rule, follow the example of the larger in the change is less apparent than in the district known to western followers of the game as the conference district.

The conference district does not mean the conference itself, but the territory influenced by that body, which may be summed up as the states of Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri and Nebraska. Schools of the Missouri valley conference follow the example set by the older and more powerful "big eight," while most of the minor schools in that territory follow the larger.

In no school is the change in coaching more apparent than in an institution no longer membered among the conference. The change in Michigan's coaching has been thorough and the work of Yost there in the last few years has been about as different from that used previous to 1905 as night is from day.

That the change is for the better is shown by the increase in strength of the Wolverine teams toward the close of the season and the bringing out of stars. Even in the palmiest days of Michigan's "steam roller" Yost never was able to get more than one man on an All-American football eleven in any one year. Last season Yost had two men, Benbrook and Wells, neither of whom would have had much better than an outside chance of making the all star team under the old system of coaching.

In the years when beef and bacon constituted the greatest qualifications for a player the Michigan eleven often was formed after the first or second game of the season and there was little chance for a man who had not

The 1915 crew practice has started at Cornell, under the supervision of Coach John J. Hoyle, assisted by Coxswains H. J. Kimball, '11, and C. F. Merz, '12, and other former crew men who will spend their spare afternoons at the crew room for the next few weeks.

Charles E. Courtney has not been seen much at the crew room, preferring to spend his time at the boat house supervising the work of several varsity candidates who are working out on the water this fall.

It is probable that he will not take charge of the freshmen until Coach Hoyle makes up several combinations to send down to the inlet within a few weeks. About twenty additional freshmen have entered, bringing the total number of 1915 candidates above the 100 mark.

COOL HEAD KEY TO SUCCESS

Earl Sprackling, All-American Quarter Back Last Year, Tells of Many Football Faults.

"Keep a cool head," is one of the leading tips that Earl Sprackling, All-American quarter back last year, gives to aspiring football players. Sprackling recently handed out a few bits of advice which will no doubt prove of value to schoolboys. He cited several instances of where players had forgotten even the simplest things about football in the excitement of a game because of the fact that they got rattled. Coolness, he said, was one of the main requisites for a player running a team.

Sprackling laid some stress on the need of good kickers this year. "There are many kinds of kicks in football and as many ways to make them," says the famous gridiron star. "The most common is the long, high punt. McKay, Brown's captain last year, was the best man I ever saw at this style. He held the ball at arm's length and on a level with his head, the ball pointing in at an angle of thirty degrees. He brought his leg up straight to the knee until his foot turned inward at the same angle as the ball. He caught the ball on the side, giving it the spiral twist. His kick continued through until his foot was over his head.

"In the east the long, low punt is gaining favor. The ball travels about ten yards high, and is hard to handle. Pennsylvania's quarter back had this kick down fine last year. His kicks would travel through the air for twenty yards, hit the ground, then roll forty to fifty yards more.

"The drop kick and place kick will be more important this year, for there is a lack of scoring plays within the twenty-yard line. A team must have a man who can make field goals. The place kick gives more distance, but is less accurate than the drop kick, because the men handle the ball in the former.

"A drop kick is usually made by dropping the ball with a slight tilt backward."

My hair was as white as snow when I commenced using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. One bottle restored my hair to its natural dark brown color.
